Wraxall, Nathaniel William. Historical Memoirs of My Own Times. London: Bickers & Son, 1884.

Sir Nathaniel William Wraxall, traveller and writer, served as an MP from 1780 to 1794 and was made a baronet in 1813. Upon publication in 1815, his memoirs were an immediate, though controversial, success. Accused of libelling a Russian diplomat, and found guilty, Wraxall brought out a second edition later that same year, with the offending passages removed.

Vol. 1: 1772-1780. 430pp. $40

Vol. 2: 1781-1784. Comprises the majority of the second, and more controversial, part of the work. Wraxall's early parliamentary years were a difficult period in England, the American War of Independence dominating Lord North's administration until his unexpected resignation on March 20, 1782. Wraxall's colourful delineations of Fox and Burke, the Earl of Shelburne, Sheridan and Pitt, as well as 'the less efficient members of the cabinet', make for an entertaining read. 448pp. $40

Zeisberger, David, and Eugene F Bliss. Diary of David Zeisberger: A Moravian Missionary among the Indians of Ohio. (Historical and Philosophical Society of Ohio vol. II and III). Cincinnati: R. Clarke, 1885.

David Zeisberger was the head of a group of Moravian missionaries that settled in the Upper Ohio Valley in 1772 to minister to the Delaware Nation. For the next ten years, Zeisberger lived among the Delaware, becoming a trusted adviser and involving himself not only in religious activities but also in political and social affairs. During this time, he kept diaries in which he recorded the full range of his activities. This diary offers an unparalleled insider's view of Indian society during times of both war and peace.
